Personnel stock option program

The Board of Directors will propose to the Annual General Meeting a similar performance-based long-term incentive program as in previous years. For Group Management, participation in the plan will require own investment in Atlas Copco shares. The details of the proposal will be communicated in connection with the Notice of the Annual General Meeting.

Review of the fourth quarter

Market development

Atlas Copco's service business remained robust in all business areas and moderate growth was achieved. The demand for Atlas Copco's equipment, however, decreased in total. The demand from some customer segments, e.g. automotive and electronics remained healthy, while other segments continued to be weak, e.g. mining, construction, and oil and gas. The order volumes increased for industrial assembly solutions as well as for vacuum equipment, while they decreased for mining and construction equipment and for compressors.

Geographically, Europe was robust and a moderate year-on-year order growth was achieved in the region. Order volumes also grew in India, but they were lower in many other markets, including China, Brazil, Australia and the United States.

Orders, revenues and operating profit margin

Atlas Copco ranked top sustainable machinery company

In January 2016, Atlas Copco was for the tenth time recognized as one of the world's most sustainable companies by the prestigious annual Global 100 list. The list, presented at the World Economic Forum, ranks companies that prove they are increasing productivity while using less resources. Atlas Copco was ranked 34th overall and is the only company in the machinery industry included in the list Operating cash surplus reached MSEK 5 914 (5 707). Cash flows from financial items were MSEK -855 (+102). The main explanation is negative cash flows from currency hedges of loans of MSEK 621 (+207) where the offsetting cash flow occurs in the future. Working capital decreased by MSEK 1 381 (1 179), primarily due to a reduction of inventory. Net investments in rental equipment were MSEK 221 (224). Net investments in property, plant and equipment were MSEK 424 (503).

In total, operating cash flow, adjusted for currency hedges of loans, reached a record MSEK 5 355 (4 876).

Tax provision of MSEK 2 802 following European Commission's decision on Belgium's tax rulings

On January 11, 2016, the European Commission announced its decision that Belgian tax rulings granted to multinationals with regard to "Excess Profit" shall be considered as illegal state aid and that unpaid taxes should be returned to the Belgian state. Atlas Copco has had such tax rulings since 2010.

As a result of the European Commission decision, Atlas Copco has made a provision of MEUR 300 (MSEK 2 802). The amount fully covers the potential liability for the years 2010-2015. Atlas Copco has not yet received a specific claim, nor information from the European Commission or the Belgian government as to what methodology should be used to establish the amount of taxes to be paid. The European Commission's decision may be appealed to the European Court of Justice.

Atlas Copco expects that information about how the tax amount should be established will become available in the coming weeks. Payment of the claimed tax amount will likely take place during Q2 2016 independent of whether or not appeals are made against the decision.

Going forward, Atlas Copco estimates that the decision will increase the Group's effective tax rate by approximately 3.5 percentage points.

Employees

On December 31, 2015, the number of employees was 43 114 (44 056). The number of consultants/external workforce was 2 835 (3 015). For comparable units, the total workforce decreased by 1 230 from December 31, 2014.

Industrial compressors

The overall demand for industrial compressors was somewhat softer and the orders received decreased somewhat compared to the previous year. The order volumes were stable in Europe and in the United States, and increased in some markets, e.g. India, but had a weak development in China, Brazil and in the Middle East. Sequentially, the order volumes decreased somewhat.

Compressor service

The compressor service business continued to achieve organic growth in nearly all markets.

Gas and process compressors

The order intake was significantly lower compared to the previous year and also lower sequentially. Compared to the previous year, order volumes were lower in all major markets.

Vacuum solutions

The order volumes for vacuum solutions increased both compared to the previous year and sequentially, primarily due to higher order intake in the United States.

Innovation

An improved range of industrial vacuum pumps were introduced in the quarter. The range has a unique screw technology and high efficiency drives, enabling advanced temperature control and long service intervals. The pumps deliver best-in-class pumping speeds and low running costs.

Acquisitions

In November, an agreement to acquire Leybold Vacuum for a total enterprise value of MEUR 486 (MSEK 4 520) was signed. The business has about 1 600 employees, and had revenues in 2014 of about MSEK 3 335. The acquisition is subject to regulatory approval is estimated to be completed in the first half of 2016.

In January 2016, Atlas Copco agreed to acquire FIAC, a manufacturer of piston compressors and related equipment, with a global sales network. The company had revenues in 2014 of about MSEK 640 and about 400 employees. The acquisition is subject to regulatory approvals and is expected to be completed during the first quarter of 2016.

Three smaller acquisitions were completed in December 2015 and in January 2016. See page 16.

Revenues and profitability

Revenues increased 1% to MSEK 11 851 (11 685), corresponding to an organic decline of 4%.

Operating profit increased to MSEK 2 620 (2 471) including restructuring costs of MSEK 55 (120), primarily related to a reduction of capacity in Germany, due to weak demand for large compressors. The adjusted operating margin was 22.6% (22.2) and was supported by currency and mix, but was impacted negatively by lower volumes. Return on capital employed (last 12 months) was 38% (40).

Mining equipment

The demand for mining equipment continued to be weak. The order volumes were lower compared to the previous year and also sequentially, if adjusted for the cancellations in Q3 2015, primarily due to lower order intake for underground equipment. Compared to the previous year, the order volumes increased in a few markets, e.g. Russia and Chile, but decreased in most other mining markets, most significantly in Brazil, Australia and in the United States.

Civil engineering equipment

The orders received for equipment for infrastructure projects decreased somewhat compared to the previous year and sequentially, mainly due to lower orders for surface drilling equipment.

Service and consumables

The service and spare parts business grew somewhat, despite lower volumes in North America and Australia.

Consumables volumes decreased somewhat compared to the previous year and sequentially. Volumes increased in Europe, but decreased in North and South America, and in Australia.

Innovation

An exploration drilling rig with an advanced control system that enables automatic functions such as drilling and rod handling was introduced in the quarter. The automatic functions are not only increasing the safety for the operator, it also improves the working environment and increases the productivity.

A range of drill bits with greatly increased service life was also introduced in the quarter. Depending on rock type, service life is up to 75% better than the competition.

Revenues and profitability

Revenues decreased 1% to MSEK 6 558 (6 622) and were unchanged organically.

Operating profit decreased to MSEK 1 163 (1 225), corresponding to a margin of 17.7% (18.5). The margin was negatively impacted by currency. Return on capital employed (last 12 months) was 34% (29).

Construction equipment

The order volumes decreased both compared to the previous year and sequentially for all types of equipment. The order intake improved only in a few markets, was somewhat lower in Europe, and decreased significantly in China, Brazil as well as in the United States. In the latter, the main reason for the decrease was lower orders from equipment rental companies.

Specialty rental

The demand for the specialty rental business remained solid and orders received increased compared to the previous year and sequentially. Compared to the previous year, order intake increased in all regions, except in Asia.

Service

The service business increased somewhat compared to the previous year and sequentially. Compared to the previous year, the order intake increased in North America and in Europe, but decreased in Africa/Middle East, South America and in Asia.

Innovation

The specialty rental fleet of portable 100% oil-free compressors was complemented with a new compressor. The engine conform to the latest emission standards and guarantees optimal fuel efficiency.

Acquisition

In January 2016, Atlas Copco acquired Varisco, an Italian pump manufacturer. Varisco's high quality pumps are used by a wide range of customers, e.g. to remove unwanted water or other liquids in the construction, mining, and oil and gas industries. They are also used in industrial process plants and for emergency services in case of floods. The company had revenues in 2014 of MSEK 270 and about 135 employees.

Revenues and profitability

Revenues reached MSEK 3 491 (3 625), corresponding to an organic decline of 6%.

Operating profit was MSEK 394 (395), corresponding to a margin of 11.3% (10.9). The margin was negatively affected by volume, but supported by currency and mix. Return on capital employed (last 12 months) was 12% (12).

Orders, revenues and operating profit margin

Accounting principles

The consolidated accounts of the Atlas Copco Group are prepared in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS) as disclosed in the annual report 2014. The interim report is prepared in accordance with IAS 34 Interim Financial Reporting.

New and amended accounting standards

The new and amended IFRS standards and IFRIC interpretations effective from January 1, 2015 have not had any material effect on the consolidated financial statements. For further information, see the annual report 2014.

Risks and factors of uncertainty*Market risks*

The demand for Atlas Copco's equipment and services is affected by changes in the customers' investment and production levels. A widespread financial crisis and economic downturn affects the Group negatively both in terms of revenues and profitability. However, the Group's sales are well diversified with customers in many industries and countries around the world, which limits the risk.

Financial risks

Atlas Copco is subject to currency risks, interest rate risks, tax risks, and other financial risks. In line with the overall goals with respect to growth, return on capital, and protecting creditors, Atlas Copco has adopted a policy to control the financial risks to which the Group is exposed. A financial risk management committee meets regularly to manage and follow up financial risks, in line with the policy.

Production risks

Many components are sourced from sub-suppliers. The availability is dependent on the sub-suppliers and if they have interruptions or lack capacity, this may adversely affect production. To minimize these risks, Atlas Copco has established a global network of sub-suppliers, which means that in most cases there are more than one sub-supplier that can supply a certain component.

Atlas Copco is also directly and indirectly exposed to raw material prices. Cost increases for raw materials and components often coincide with strong end-customer demand and can partly be offset by increased sales to mining customers and partly compensated for by increased market prices.

Acquisitions

Atlas Copco has the ambition to grow all its business areas, primarily through organic growth, complemented by selected acquisitions. The integration of acquired businesses is a difficult process and it is not certain that every integration will be successful. Therefore, costs related to acquisitions can be higher and/or synergies can take longer to materialize than anticipated.

For further information, see the annual report 2014.

Forward-looking statements

Some statements in this report are forward-looking, and the actual outcome could be materially different. In addition to the factors explicitly discussed, other factors could have a material effect on the actual outcome. Such factors include, but are not limited to, general business conditions, fluctuations in exchange rates and interest rates, political developments, the impact of competing products and their pricing, product development, commercialization and technological difficulties, interruptions in supply, and major customer credit losses.

Atlas Copco AB

Atlas Copco AB and its subsidiaries are sometimes referred to as the Atlas Copco Group, the Group or Atlas Copco. Atlas Copco AB is also sometimes referred to as Atlas Copco. Any mentioning of the Board of Directors or the Directors refers to the Board of Directors of Atlas Copco AB.
